

Documents on Diplomacy: Exercises

"China Hands" Outlines

"One cannot help coming to feel that this movement is strong and successful, and that it has such drive behind it and has tied itself so closely to the people that it will not easily be killed."

Documents on Diplomacy: Exercises

"Mao has more warmth and magnetism than would be expected from the generally poor pictures of him."

Documents on Diplomacy: Exercises

"In short, Mr.
Service's first impressions of the Yen'an scene
seem to have been wholly favorable."

Documents on Diplomacy: Exercises

"I suggest that the American representatives best suited to visit the Communist area
are Foreign Service Officers of the China
language service."

Documents on Diplomacy: Exercises

I, along with the other leaders,
mingle freely with those who are serving in Yenan;
everyone has a
job and produces something.

Documents on Diplomacy: Exercises

My
headquarters
and all Kuomintang
operations are centralized in Chungking.

Documents on Diplomacy: Exercises

"It is interesting, therefore, that
my own first impressions—and
those of the rest of our Observer Group—have been extremely favorable."

Documents on Diplomacy: Exercises

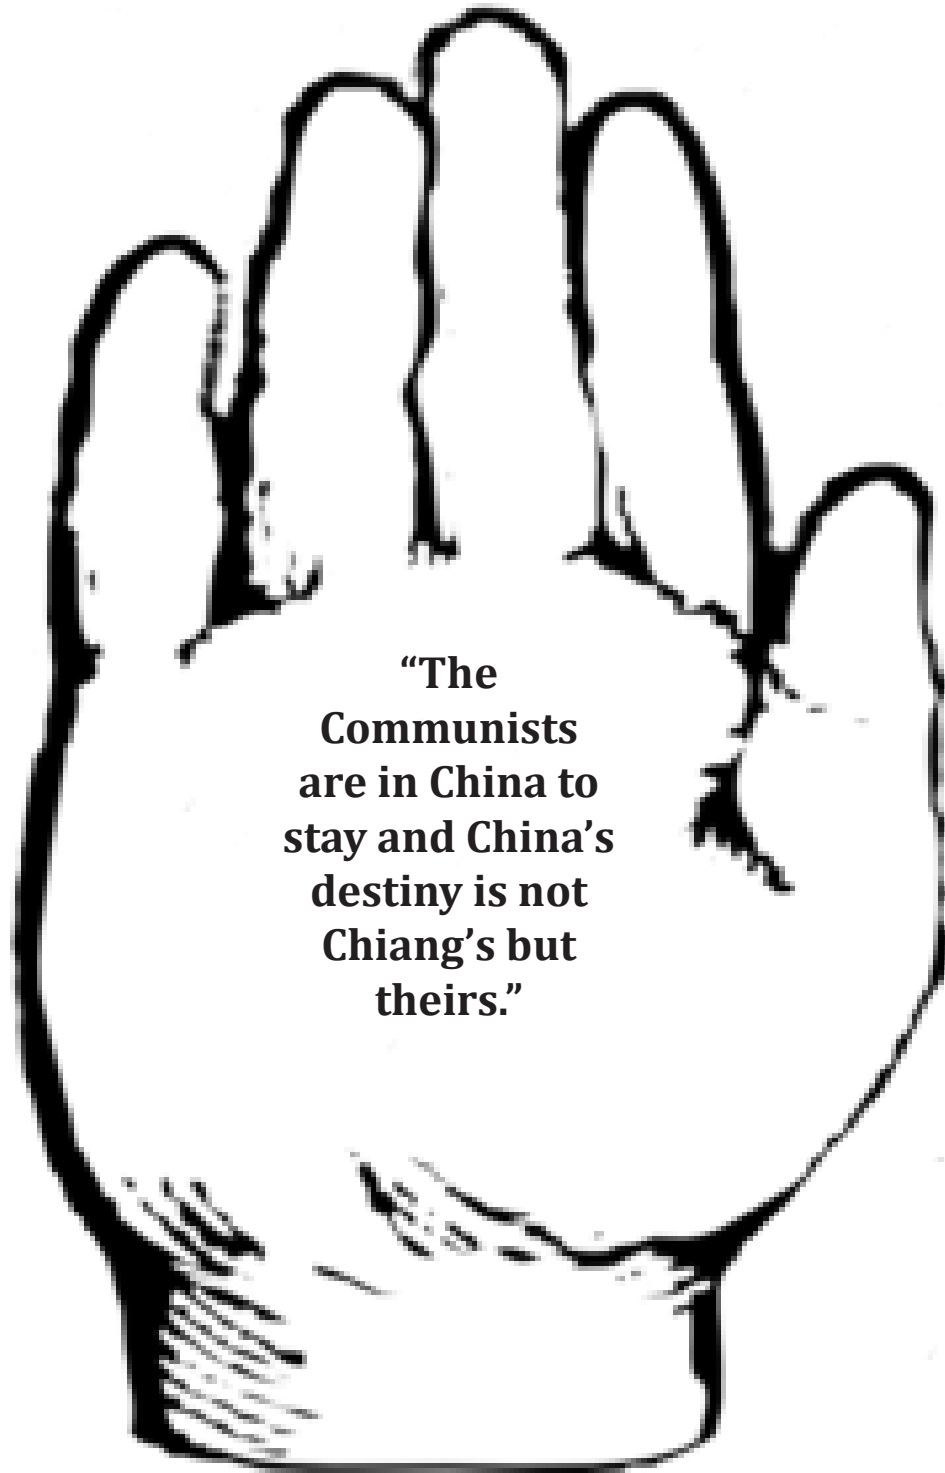

"You [Patrick Hurley] are hereby designated as my personal representative with the Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, reporting directly to me. Your principal mission is to promote efficient and harmonious relations between the Generalissimo and General [Joseph] Stilwell."

Documents on Diplomacy: Exercises

I do not want to accept the ambassadorship because the duties I already have been called upon to perform in China were terribly disagreeable. My support of Chiang Kai-shek and the National Government is met with increased opposition from the pro-Communist elements in the State Department. However, President Roosevelt has convinced me to accept the position. At least Stilwell has been removed.

Documents on Diplomacy: Exercises

"The Communists are in China to stay and China's destiny is not Chiang's but theirs."